

Goldrim Plaza, the newly completed 110 unit structure, opposite the Lagos State Public Works Corporation at Ojodu-Berger has been commissioned by the Chairman of Ifako-Ijaiye Local Government, Usman Hamzat on Friday, September 11th.

According to the Chairman, the project is a landmark investment, which aligns with the goal of his administration of transforming the council area into a hub of commerce in Lagos.

The Chief Executive Officer of Goldrim Construction Company Gbenga Edeyokun, alongside other investors were commended by the Chairman, for their commitment to enterprise development.

The Chairman also encouraged traders to utilize the facility well and maintain the cleanliness and security of the area. Speaking during the event, the CEO of Goldrim, Gbenga Edeyokun acknowledged God for his guidance through several milestone construction projects, with some commissioned by the former Governor of Lagos state and President Tinubu.

According to him, the company believes in providing working and trading environments that are welcoming to businesses with environmental friendliness remaining a priority.

He stressed that the watchword at Goldrim was intergrity, reassuring customers of the trustworthy nature of Goldrim.

“At Goldrim Plaza, the business environment is also worthy of note. Various needs of different people, regardless of social status, are met under the same roof in a one-stop plaza,” he said.

He provided examples of some of the businesses operating at Goldrim Plaza, Ojodu-Berger, including financial institutions, medical suppliers, boutiques, salons, logistics organisations, foodstuff suppliers, IT firms among others, emphasizing the ability of a single roof to cater to the diverse needs of the community.

He added that Goldrim Construction Company is expanding its network of infrastructure projects to include housing schemes for Lagosians, disclosing that the first set of housing projects would soon be unveiled in the Grammar School area of Ojodu-Berger.

Meanwhile, the event featured a presentation of keys to entrepreneurs who have
