

Lagos State Governor, Babajide Sanwo-Olu has congratulated the First Lady of the country, Senator Oluremi Tinubu on her 66th birthday.

In the statement released on his social media pages, Sanwo-Olu describes her as a dependable mother of the nation stating that she has bettered the lives of many through her public career.

“As mother of our dear nation, Senator Tinubu has dedicated herself to the service of elevating humanity through her numerous initiatives from her days as the First Lady of Lagos State

“From her time as First Lady of Lagos to her years in the Senate and now through the Renewed Hope Initiative, she has continued to use her position to support and improve the lives of many.” he stated.

He added that the celebration of her 66th birthday is not only on his behalf, but also on behalf of his family, the entire Lagos State government, APC and the people of the state.

“On behalf of my wife, Ibijoke, family, the Government and the people of Lagos State, leaders and members of our party, the All Progressives Congress (APC), I wholeheartedly congratulate Senator Oluremi Tinubu, wife of our leader and President, Asiwaju Bola Ahmed Tinubu, GCFR, on her 66th birthday.”

In addition to congratulatory wishes, the governor added prayers for success for the celebrant.

He also addressed her as a philanthropist, praising her contributions to Lagos and Nigeria at large through her public service for almost 30 years.

“Dedicating almost three decades of her life to serving the people, especially as a member of the Red Chamber representing Lagos Central Senatorial District for three consecutive terms, Senator Tinubu has sponsored and supported bills and legislations that touched on the elevation of women, children and vulnerable persons in our country. She has personally supported individuals and groups in need of assistance for personal development,” he said.

Sanwo-Olu described the First Lady as an Amazon, ending the statement with wishes for her success.
